Fig. S1. Schematic diagram of a micro-PIV system used for in vivo measurements of blood flow in the food canal of a female mosquito. A long-pass filter allows only the light scattered from fluorescent tracer particles to reach the camera.