

Fig. S1. Average ocular media transmittance of four raptor species with error bars indicating the standard deviation of all individual measurements.

Table S1. Ocular media transmittance in four species of raptor. Transmittance is the average for both eyes in one specimen for each species. The data are smoothed by an 11-point running average and normalized to the highest value within the range (300–700 nm).

Download Table S1.